

WEDDING STORY ATELIER

Till Laughter Do Us Part

A fill-in-the-blank wedding game.

The table tosses the coins — and writes everyone their own gloriously absurd vow.

30 CARDS · 5 BONUS · 7 FATE BOARDS · A COIN-TOSS GAME

HOW TO PLAY

The Round

- 1 Each round, one player is the Scribe and takes a vow card. Everyone else gets a coin.
- 2 Place the seven Fate Boards in the middle of the table.
- 3 Behind each blank, in parentheses, is the board to use — e.g. (Body part).
- 4 Taking turns, the others toss a coin onto the named board: eyes closed, toss (or point blindly). The Scribe writes down the word it lands on.
- 5 Blank by blank, around the table, until the card is full — as many tosses as blanks.
- 6 The Scribe reads the finished vow aloud — the one the whole table stuck them with. Laughter guaranteed!
- 7 Next player becomes the Scribe, new card — and gets their revenge.

The Scribe has no control — the table fills their vow. That's the whole joke. Word already taken? Toss again or use the neighbouring square. Grammar doesn't matter: the weirder, the better.

FOR THE SCRIBE

Read It Like You Mean It

- Read slowly and clearly.
- Pause after the absurd words to let the laughter land.
- Read with feeling — overdo it!
- Keep eye contact with the couple.
- When everyone's done laughing, start the next vow.

SCORING (OPTIONAL)

- The couple awards 1–3 points per vow, together.
- Or: loudest applause wins.
- Or: let each table vote.
